

Primary Care Week

October 3rd – 7th 2022

Presented by the Second Year's of the Generalist Scholars Program

Primary Care Week is a week long event that focuses on several topics of note within the medical community and works in collaboration with the UVA Medical Center Hour to co-sponsor a lunch-hour program that addresses an issue related to primary care. This year's Primary Care Week will host several speakers, volunteer opportunities, and end with a documentary and discussion of what is Primary Care? Join us as we celebrate and explore the world of primary care the Week of October 3rd-7th.

Dr. Joseph Tan,
PhD

Kerry Hendrix,
MSN, FNP-C

Monday, October 3rd:
"The Role of the Primary Care Provider In Women's Health"
12-1PM - MEB Auditorium (3rd Floor)

Dr. Shaquita
Bell, MD

Dr. Muhommed
Ali, MD, MSC,
MBA

Tuesday, October 4th:
"Integrating Primary Care and Behavioral Health"
12-1PM - MEB Auditorium (3rd Floor)

"Community Health Screening"
6-7:30PM - Salvation Army

Wednesday, October 5th: Medical Center Hour
"Diabetes and the Fragmented States of America: The Opportunity for Primary Care"
12-1PM - Pinn Hall Auditorium (2nd Floor)

Virginia
Wellness Initiative

Thursday, October 6th:
"Human Trafficking"
12-1PM - MEB Auditorium (3rd Floor)

"Volunteer Orientation with The Haven"
Time TBD - Zoom

THE HAVEN

Friday, October 7th:
"What is Primary Care?"
Documentaries and Discussion
12-1PM - MEB Auditorium (3rd Floor)

UNIVERSITY of VIRGINIA

SCHOOL of MEDICINE